Glossary and Reason for listing

This list covers CITES-listed tree species, IUCN-listed tree species and tree species listed on Rainforest Foundation Norway's tree list. The tree species on the list are not allowed to be used in Nordic Ecolabelled products

CITES (<https://www.cites.org/>)

Tree species listed on CITES appendix I, II and III.

IUCN Redlist (<https://www.iucnredlist.org/search>)

The IUCN Red List is set upon precise criteria to evaluate the extinction risk of thousands of species and subspecies.

These criteria are relevant to all species and all regions of the world. The aim is to convey the urgency of conservation issues to the public and policy makers, as well as help the international community to try to reduce species extinction.

Nordic Swan Ecolabel wishes to prohibit tree species listed as endangered (categories CR, EN and VU)

CR = Critically Endangered

EN = Endangered

VU = Vulnerable

Rainforest Foundation Norway (<https://www.regnskog.no/no/hva-du-kan-gjore/unnga-tropisk-tommer/tropiske-treslag>)

(Rainforest Foundation Norway) is an NGO in Norway that works to protect the world's remaining rainforests.

Rainforest Foundation Norway has developed a list of tropical tree species based on tree species found on the Norwegian market. This list works as a guide to comply with Norwegian guidelines regarding no-use of tropical wood in public construction.

Intact Forest Landscapes (IFL) Russia

Siberian larch (grown outside Europe) is on the tree list.

The tree species is widespread in the Eurasian northern boreal climate zone, and particularly the species Larix sibirica, Larix gmelinii, Larix cajanderi and Larix sukaczewii are widespread in the large areas of intact forest landscapes in Russia.

Notes

The common trade name is chosen from different sources and might cover different tree species, families and country of origin. Trade names might vary depending on language etc. and therefore is the list not exclusive.

The listed tree species are in some cases named with scientific family name and "spp.", thereby referring to all species in a given genus.

The list of scientific names is not exclusive since many names have synonyms.
